High Reliability Cables - When Failure is not an Option!

Conflict Minerals Policy

As a build-to-print manufacturer, not a raw material producer, FEC does not have detailed information on conflict minerals. The original component manufacturer (OEM) is the proper source for this information.

In order to minimize the potential for conflict minerals being utilized in our products, we only purchase material from OEMs, or their authorized distributors. In addition, a certificate of conformance from the part supplier or manufacturer is required and maintained for traceability.

As part of our purchase order requirements, FEC flows down a conflict minerals use statement to all our sub-tier suppliers.
